THE ILLINOIS PROGRAM IN PARIS

The Illinois Program in Paris, established in 1971 and sponsored and supervised by the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign offers students an academic year or a one semester of study in French language, literature, and civilization. Courses of instruction are given primarily by L’Institut Catholique. The recommended duration of the Illinois Program in Paris is nine months (September - June); however, the Program does offer a one-semester (Spring semester) option. Participation is open to sophomores, juniors and seniors, and to non-French majors as well as to French majors. The Program has a Permanent Residential Director and an administrative center in Paris.

ACADEMIC PROGRAMS

Students are placed in groups according to their proficiency level from a placement test given at the end of the semester before going abroad. There will be an orientation upon arrival in France that will include a grammar review before classes start.

_Institut Catholique (All levels)_

This is a French language school that bears the Catholic name for its location in historic Paris and not for any religious base to its program. The school helps students with setting up conversation exchanges with French people and it arranges group meetings for students of the same level to practice their French at the school. The classes are small, with no more than 25 for big seminars and less than 12 for language sections. L’Institut Catholique also gives the students the opportunity to work on a school publication, another extracurricular activity that encourages you to practice your French. Advanced students will also be able to take some courses with French students at Paris-Diderot Paris VII-La Sorbonne or at the Catho.

_Excursions_

In addition to regular academic work, the program includes excursions, such as a trip to the Loire Valley, and/or shorter trips to Chartres, Vaux-le-Vicomte, Monet's home in Normandy, and so on.

HOUSING

Three types of housing are available: (1) home stay with a French family; (2) French dormitory lodging; (3) independent housing.

_Home Stay_

Students interested in staying with a family should understand that sometimes he/she will take their meals with the family and sometimes only has kitchen privileges. Sometimes the student is integrated into the family (ideal) and sometimes the family simply rents a room.

_Dormitory lodging_

Various dorms are used scattered throughout the city to place students in a French speaking environment.

_Meals_

Each student is introduced to the government-subsidized student restaurants during orientation.

INTERNSHIP AND SERVICE LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES

IPP is now offering a new service to help students enrolled in the program find internship and service learning opportunities during their time in Paris. If interested, before your departure you will be put in contact with the advisor in the Paris office. You will be guided through each step of the search and application process. IPP has agreements with organizations which work with our students on a regular basis. The office can also attempt to meet special requests. Under certain conditions, students can obtain credits for the experience.

SUPERVISION

Students enrolled in the Illinois Program in Paris will be under the supervision of the program director, who is employed by the University of Illinois. During the spring semester students are required to take 2 or 3 courses offered by professors hired by the IPP Director, all of these courses are at the 300 level. If students are not able to take these advanced classes they will take courses at their level at the Institut Catholique.

TRANSPORTATION, COSTS, AND FINANCIAL AID

Transportation

Trans-Atlantic air transportation is arranged by the program at the most advantageous price available. Students travel to Paris in a group, departing Chicago in mid-September or mid-February. The group is met in Paris by the program director. Students are free to choose their own return trip date.

Costs

The cost of participation in the program varies according to the housing option chosen. Program payments cover tuition, fees, trans-Atlantic transportation, lodging according to the option chosen, and various social and cultural activities. Not included are expenditures for passports, visas, textbooks, transportation within Paris, personal items such as laundry, entertainment, and any vacation travel plus food. Telephone bills are the responsibility of the students. Most students spend $1,200-$2,225 for meals depending on housing option plus at least $1,500 during the academic year for personal expenses.

ELIGIBILITY AND CREDIT

Students applying to the program should have an all-university average of at least 3.0 (in a 4.0 system), and an average of 3.0 in French courses. Prior to participation in the program, French majors should have completed French 205, 207, 208 or 209. Applications are invited from both French majors and from students majoring in other fields who have completed at least one year of French. Applications of students who have not fulfilled the stated requirements will be considered on an individual basis but Non-majors with basic French proficiency may apply, as the Institut Catholique offers beginner courses.

A maximum of 36 semester hours may be earned abroad. Credit is established by the Department of French, and transcripts are furnished by the University of Illinois. While pursuing studies in Paris, students are considered to be in residence at the University of Illinois and the year abroad does not interrupt residency.

IT IS NOT POSSIBLE TO GRADUATE IN THE SPRING OF YOUR YEAR OR SEMESTER ABROAD.
